Comments:

The fell racing keeps coming with another Wednesday event Inclined to Madness. The race route includes the Incline a former rail route used in the Ironstone industry, the stats of the ascent itself are 1400 metres long with a rise of around 200 metres, another quirk of the route is that the finish is at a higher elevation than the start, so competitors do not quite benefit from the effort put into the climb.

The overcast day gave way to a clear sunny evening ideal for fell racing for the field of 91 runners that organiser David Bannister of York Acorn registered.

In the tale of the tape it was a win overall for Sam Leadley of Loftus and Whitby AC who just eased out Tom Levi of Thirsk and Sowerby Harriers with Michael Harcourt of Darlington Harriers in third. Craig Gath (v45) Easingwold Running Club was first veteran home in 5th and Dave Parker (v55) Saint Theresa's placed 10th.

In the women's race it was Nik Tarrega of York Knavesmires Harriers who claimed a second race win in succession from Shelli Gordon (v45) North York Moors AC in second just beating Esther Harrison Thirsk and Sowerby Harriers.

The women's team was a return to winning ways for Thirsk and Sowerby Harriers with Loftus and Whitby doing the same for the men.

Next race is only a few breath's away on Wednesday 12th July Cock Howe and Beyond at Chop Gate Village Hall.

Regards

David Bannister York Acorn
